

CLIMATE CRISIS YOUTH EUROPEAN ELECTIONS 2024

international conference for youth, civil society representatives and Academia

- 19 MAY 2023 - FRIDAY

As a central topic climate change is the biggest threat to humanity today and it needs transnational and multinational solutions. That is why creation of a strong European political community which is (inter-)active, diverse and able to form and express opinions in political debate is essential.

While the turnout in the last EU election was the largest in 25 years, citizens of diverse backgrounds and mobile union citizens remain underrepresented among active EU voters as well as democratic engagement. Our project aims to decrease the democratic participation gap of young citizens, citizens of diverse backgrounds, mobile union citizens in a gender balanced way by showing them their voices matter.

THE GOAL OF THE EVENT IS TO:

discuss the results of research on UE political parties programs, youth opinions and participation practices to develop new quality format of debate in which topics concerned with climate change and sustainability are highlighted.

"Blood Lines exhibition that is a sound installation that raises awareness about the pressing issues of eco-criticism and eco-racism in rural areas inhabited by minorities.
